The wily weasel is back with more brand new episodes as part of his regular weekday slot. I.M. Weasel is everything you wouldn't expect a weasel to be. There's nothing he can't do and when asked how he manages his answer is self-evident ...I am Weasel. The one person that does not subscribe to his fan club is his insanely jealous archrival I.R. Baboon, who is unyielding in his attempts to unseat his nemesis from his throne.

Working late in his laboratory one night, Professor Utonium, a lonely genetic engineer was reaching the culmination of his ultimate lifelong dream: the creation of a perfect little girl using sugar spice and everything nice!

At last, his creation was nearly complete! Years of toiling over a hot bunsen burner had finally paid off and as he added the fourth and final ingredient, Formula X, to his concoction, he was imagining the final result...KA-BOOM! The haphazard addition of the toxic gloop set off an explosive chain reaction of elements which resulted in the creation of 3 superheroes, The Powerpuff Girls, who burst onto your screens from January. Blossom, Bubbles and Buttercup will be 'Saving the world before bedtime!' in thirteen half-hour shows in which the girls fight crime and save the world from a host of villains!

DAYS & TIMES

Weekdays at 7am and 4pm

Weekends at 8am and 4pm

POWERPUFF GIRL FACTS

Get the lowdown on the Powerpuff Girls and get in the know!

Blossom, with her fiery red hair tied up in her trade mark red bow is the troupe's leader who, with her combination of brains and beauty often saves the day!

Golden haired happy go lucky Bubbles is the sensitive one of the three who wears her heart on her sleeve and adds laughter, fun and spirit into the girls' many adventures.

Buttercup is the tomboy of the group, whose idea of a quiet morning is beating up a gang of baddies before most of us have had breakfast. If ever there's an adventure to be had or dastardly enemies to be tussled with, you can bet she'll be there first!

The Powerpuff Girls live in Townsville with their creator Professor Utonium, a lonely genetic engineer.

The Powerpuff Girls are the brainchild of Craig McCracken who was also behind 2 Stupid Dogs and the award winning Dexter's Laboratory.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF CATS!

MAYBE YOU LOVE THEM, MAYBE YOU HATE THEM, BUT WHATEVER YOU MIGHT THINK ABOUT CATS THERE'S NO DENYING WHAT AN IMPORTANT PART THEY'VE PLAYED THROUGHOUT HISTORY.

The most ancient evidence relating to the domestic cat dates back 3,500 years to the mysterious country of Egypt. Storage rooms which contained large amounts of grain attracted many rats and mice, who in turn provided a juicy feast for the wild cats of the area. The cats were so effective in the control of unwanted pests that they were declared sacred - holy, even. This was good news for cats. If anyone killed a cat, they were immediately sentenced to death. When a cat died inside a house, the owners would mourn by weeping, wailing, and even shaving their eyebrows off! What a fuss!

IT WASN'T MUCH FUN FOR CATS IN MEDIEVAL EUROPE: THEY WERE THOUGHT TO BE THE COMPANIONS OF WITCHES!

IN ANCIENT EGYPT, THE MARVELLOUS MOGGIES BECAME GUARDIANS OF THE GRAIN STORES. NO ENTRY! OR ELSE...

EGYPTIAN GODS

Respect for cats was so high that many were embalmed and preserved as mummies after death, a process usually reserved for the royal Pharaohs. More mummies of cats than humans have been found, literally thousands - that's a lot of bandages! People believed that cats had a direct influence on health, marriage and fortune. The cat was so important in Egypt that it was worshipped for two thousand years as the figure of the goddess Bastet, who had the body of a woman and the head of a cat.

THE CAT ACROSS THE WORLD

It doesn't matter where you are, there will always be a cat close by. Here are some of the many words for our furry friend...

Le Chat	French
Gatto	Italian
Katze	German
Neko	Japanese
Koshka	Russian
Ikati	Zulu
Ko-yang-i	Korean
Meo	Thai

MORE MUMMIES OF CATS THAN HUMANS HAVE BEEN FOUND INSIDE THE PYRAMIDS.

THE EXTERMINATOR

Cats are considered to be the most effective animal when it comes to killing rodents. In the Middle Ages, there is a story about one particular cat who caught over 12,480 squeakers, which is about five or six a day. Crikey! Whoever decided to count them all deserves some sort of record himself! Let's hope he didn't stick them in an album to show his friends.

HIDDEN TREASURE

It wasn't until the Persians, Greeks and Romans invaded Egypt that the greatest treasure of all, the African wildcat, could leave the land of the Pyramids and spread to other parts of the world. Have passport, will travel! Perhaps no other animal has suffered as much as the common cat, which has survived throughout history to become an essential part of life in the countryside and the city.

DIFFICULT TIMES

Soon everyone wanted a cat and they roamed about freely, but their solitary and mysterious ways were to cause problems. As the Egyptian gods became forgotten in favour of Christianity, cats became associated with evil and wicked ways. In Europe during the Middle Ages, people got so worked up about this that they persecuted cats until there were very few left. There wasn't much to purr about in those days.

THE PERSIAN, GREEK AND ROMAN EMPIRES WERE ALSO BIG FANS - HO HO!

A NEW REIGN

Fortunately for cats they spread to different parts of the world, including America, where they soon recovered their popularity. One of the most famous breeds is the Angora, which has long, soft hair and comes from Turkey. Just as popular are the Persian and Siamese varieties, from the Far East. In the 14th Century, it was fashionable to keep cats as collectors items. These days cats are more popular than ever before (why else would we go on and on about them?), and there are more than a hundred different types in the entire world. It looks like the bad times are over - bring on another saucer of milk!

EVEN THE WAY A FELINE STRUTS IS CELEBRATED IN THE FASHION TERM, 'CAT WALK'!

THE MISSING LINK

The domestic kitty can be traced back to the wildcat, but there's evidence to suggest they have existed longer than anyone previously thought. Just this year, in the month of July, British paleontologists identified a new type of 'dino-cat', after discovering remains on an island off the south coast of England. The prehistoric puss is more than four metres in length, with huge claws and sharp teeth. Miaaoww!

CREATE YOUR OWN ANIMATION!

INSTRUCTIONS

Cut out the panel of four boxes below. On the first page of your notebook, trace the first picture of Chicken. On the second page trace the second picture of Chicken and so on. When you are tracing make sure you always line up the crosses in the top right corner of each little picture with the previous page. When you have traced every drawing, turn to the last drawing page. Flick the page without stopping and you will see Chicken walk! Whoo-hoo! You're an animated cartoonist!

YOU NEED:

This magazine
Notebook with thin paper
A pencil

OPTICAL ILLUSIONS

Mega clever! How this works is: Your eye remembers the picture of Chicken it just saw and matches it with the next picture it sees as you flick the pages. Your brain connects all the pictures together and your eyes see them as a continuous picture. Therefore, you see Chicken walking! Great things eyes, shame we don't have more than two.
